

Seal of Approval: Rules of Use

April 2017

An introduction

SafeContractor actively encourages its accredited members to use the SafeContractor seal of approval on their documentation and marketing material. To allow contractors to do this we have produced this guidance document as a point of reference.

We allow flexibility in the way the seal of approval can be used. However, these rules are intended to maintain consistency regarding its use, and to prevent any misuse.

Please note, these rules must be respected and followed as a condition of using the SafeContractor seal of approval. Any amendments to these rules will be communicated to you.

The seal of approval

This is the primary seal of approval, which should always be used:

The seal is also available in transparent (white), black and greyscale on request:

Misuse of the seal

The overall appearance of the SafeContractor seal of approval should not be misinterpreted, modified or added to. Do not redraw, adjust or modify it in any way. It should only be reproduced from the official artwork provided.

The SafeContractor seal demonstrates to clients and the public that the contractor's health and safety policies have been assessed and approved by SafeContractor.

The seal must only be used by fully accredited members.

Minimum size

The SafeContractor seal of approval should not be used smaller than 15 x 15mm.

MINIMUM SIZE
